

Texas Tuition Promise Fund[®]

The purchase of a Contract is the prepayment, on behalf of the Beneficiary, of future tuition and school-wide required fees at Texas public colleges and universities, and should not be viewed as an investment. If a Beneficiary chooses not to attend college, receives a scholarship, dies, or becomes disabled, or if the Contract is otherwise terminated or cancelled, the Purchaser may receive a refund, which in certain cases may include a portion of the net return or loss on the Plan's investments. If the Beneficiary attends a Texas private college or university, career school, or out-of-state college or university, the Transfer Value is paid. Transfer Value is limited to the lesser of (1) the costs the tuition unit would cover at a public in-state college or university or (2) the original purchase price of the tuition unit plus or minus the Plan's net investment earnings or losses on that amount. Earnings may be paid on a refund if such payment will not adversely affect the actuarial soundness of the Plan. The earnings portion of a non-qualified distribution is subject to federal income taxes plus a 10% federal tax, as well as any state or local taxes that may apply. The Contract Owner has no right to or interest in any investment returns on the purchase calculated; see the Plan Description and Master Agreement at www.texas tuition promise fund.com.

The investment percentage amount of the assets in the portfolio will vary over time due to market performance and will be rebalanced at least quarterly to help maintain the portfolio's target asset allocation. The portfolio is not designed to provide any particular total return over any particular time period or investment time horizon. Contract owners do not have a direct beneficial interest in the mutual funds or other instruments held by the portfolio, and therefore, do not have the rights of a shareholder or owner of those investments.

Each underlying investment has its own risks. For example, some underlying investments may invest in foreign securities, which entail special risks (such as currency fluctuations and political factors) and may have higher expenses and volatility. Investments in growth and technology stocks may be especially volatile. The prices of small-cap stocks are generally more volatile than large-cap stocks. Value investing involves the risk that securities deemed to be undervalued at the time of purchase may not appreciate as anticipated. Fixed income investing entails credit and interest rate risks. When interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall, and the underlying investment's or account's value can fall. Derivative instruments, investments whose values depend on the performance of an underlying security, asset, interest rate, index or currency, entail potentially higher volatility and risk of loss compared to traditional stock or bond instruments.

Purchasers who are non-residents of Texas should consider whether their home state offers its residents a 529 plan with alternative tax advantages and should consult their tax advisor.

Contracts in the Plan are not deposits or other obligations of any depository institution. Neither a contract nor a return paid with a refund is insured or guaranteed by the FDIC, the state of Texas, the Texas Prepaid Higher Education Tuition Board, any other state or federal government agency or NorthStar or its affiliates. The contracts have not been registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission or with any state.

Purchasers should carefully consider the risks, administrative fees, service and other charges and expenses associated with the Contracts, including Plan termination and decreased Transfer or Refund Value.
